

World Population Stripes

This map shows the world population along a latitudinal gradient. Each stripe represents the distribution of the human population and covers approx. 1900 km in width at the Equator.

